An unusually large crowd attended the annual revival services at the Mount Shiloh Baptist Church last Sunday morning to witness the annual homecoming and the beginning of the revival. The pastor, Rev. R. Q. Lawing, preached at the morning and evening services. The church choir sang beautiful gospel songs. The Peaceful Grove Church choir rendered music at the 3 P. M. service. Dinner was served on the church lawn by ladies of the church. The general offering during the day was $245.34. A number of former members gave remarks. Meetings are held each evening at 7:30. The Rev. W. H. Hodge, pastor of the Diamond Hill Baptist Church, of Lynchburg is the guest minister.

The annual revival will begin at the Springfield Baptist Church this Sunday. Three services will be held. The pastor, Rev. Cain will deliver the introductory sermon and the Rev. Carlton Cooke, of Turners Station, Maryland, will be the guest speaker at the 3 P. M. and 8 P. M. services. Dinner will be served at the church.

The public is invited to attend the annual revival at the Chestnut Grove Baptist Church this Sunday. The pastor, Rev. N. R. Jordan will preach the introductory sermon and the Rev. C. A. Marshall will preach at the 3 P. M. service and will be the guest speaker during the week.

The Roseland Singers and the Gospel Wonder Singers, of Lynchburg will give a musical program at the Galilee Baptist Church on the first Sunday in September at 8 P. M. The program will be given for the benefit of the Sunday School transportation fund of Galilee.

The Rev. C. A. Marshall reported a great day at the Peakes Baptist Church last Sunday morning as they began their annual revival. Rev. N. R. Jordan is the guest speaker for the week.

Revival services are in progress at the Canaan Baptist Church. The services are held each evening at 7:30. The public is invited.

Uncle Sam Says

Devotion to country is what wins on the field of battle. Devotion to the American soldiers in the field is your job. And there is one big way to show it—your greater purchase of U. S. Defense Bonds. In letter after letter from foreign fields, our soldiers urge their families and friends to back them up with the purchase of Defense Bonds. Prove to them you are behind them.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 13:1-7.

Christians and Law

Lesson for August 19, 1951

Dr. Foreman

Americans are not noted for their respect for law. Sometimes big business is the reason. In a certain southern state there are two counties through which run some main highways. But tourists are well advised to stay away from there, because the roads have been pounded into a mass of potholes by overloaded truck operating at high speeds and often on the wrong side of the road. Now the state has laws against overloading trucks; it has laws against speeding, here is an honest state police department. But although various arrests have been made, the head of the police department reports that in those two counties they never yet have been able to secure a single conviction in the courts. Why?

* * *

Who Is to Blame?

SOMETIMES politics is to blame. That is to say, a man wants to get, or to hold, office, so eagerly that he will ignore or defy the law in order to keep his little place in the sun.

There is another county where a policeman shot a law-breaker resisting arrest and attempting to shoot the officer. The county judge tried to make three successive grand juries indict the policeman, but after looking into the facts they all refused.

Here was the interesting spectacle of a judge on the bench (elected there) trying to make the law work against itself, trying to force a grand jury to indict an innocent man. The thing was, the policeman was from out of the county, but the man he killed, being a bootlegger, had many friends who were also friends of the judge.

* * *

We Get What We Deserve

BUT we can't blame big business, or mean politics, for the lawlessness of America. If individuals respected the law, if every man respected the law just as he wants others to respect it, we could handle business and we could get rid of dishonest politicians.

An official high in federal circles, who had had plenty of opportunity to observe, remarked last spring, speaking of controls, that every one wants the other man controlled, everybody wants to control somebody else, but nobody wants to be controlled.

That's just the trouble. We can make all the laws we please, but so long as we are the kind of people who will not respect a law if it cramps our own style, then we need not be surprised at the sort of thing a senate crime committee digs up.

* * *

No Government Is Perfect

MANY of us try to excuse ourselves by saying that the government is inefficient or even crooked, and that the laws are unfair. Christians, certainly, can see very easily the failings of both government and law. But Christians ought to be the very persons to set the example of respect for law and government.

Consider the New Testament. Hardly a single Christian mentioned in that book had the least thing to do with making the laws of those times. The government was from the top down, the exact opposite of democratic. None of the early Christians could vote or hold office.

The government, whether in Palestine or in Rome, was in non-Christian hands. The laws lacked a good deal of being wholly just and fair.

Nevertheless, Jesus and Paul and Peter, all of whom suffered from the laws of their times, urged men to pay tribute (taxes) to Caesar, to support the magistrates, to obey the laws. Even a selfish, money-hungry and often cruel government like that of Rome deserved support.

Jesus and Paul alike remind us that we rely on government for protection; that government, in spite of all exceptions, is on the side of good men, not against them.

If we had no government we should miss it and want it. St. Peter, writing to Christians who were actually being persecuted by the government, urged them nevertheless to be loyal to the authorities. There may come times—indeed, human nature being what it is, such times are bound to come—when a government proves so corrupt and unjust that it deserves to fall; but even then the way out is not the way of lawlessness. Reforms come best from the law-abiding, not the lawdefying.

A good sign to "go" by!

THIS shining emblem "GMC" is the sparkling sign of the fastest growing line of trucks in the land—with sales growth unmatched this year by any other manufacturer. The reasons for this are sound ones.

For in the chassis of a GMC you find "long-time, stay-with" stamina—truck-building that dares comparison with anything on the road today.

Under the GMC hood you find real power—the kind of truck-built power it takes to keep goods moving year after year. Whether it's a nimble ½- to 2-tonner with horsepower unsurpassed in its class, or the fabulous two-cycle Diesel which is outselling, outperforming every other make—a GMC puts more "go" to the load!

And in the cabs—drivers who work in comfort and safety. They have the look of men who know their truck will get the job done quicker and better.

You'll feel the same way when you try a GMC yourself. Come in—compare the facts, the features, the way they haul. Listen to the savings talk.

According to the Warm Springs Ranger District of the George Washington National Forest, 51 rattlesnakes and 33 copperheads have been killed by them as of August 1. Four of the rattlesnakes were opened up, and disclosed that rodlers show a varied diet. In one snake they found a half-grown squirrel; in the second and third snakes they found two rabbits; and in the fourth they found a rat.

Veal Chops California
Gene Autry's ideal meal

1½ cups uncooked prunes
½ cup fat or salad oil
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
½ cup canned mushrooms
4 cups water
1 cup tomato sauce
4 large veal chops
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper

Cook prunes 10 minutes in about ½ cup of water. Remove pits. Cut prunes into medium-sized pieces. Heat fat or salad oil in frying pan. Saute onion and mushrooms 5 minutes. Add tomato sauce; cook 5 minutes longer. Add prunes, chops, salt, pepper and 2 cups water. Cover; simmer 1 hour. Add remaining water as needed. Yield: 4 servings.

Silage is Low Cost Feed

Wider use of home grown silage as a low cost dairy feed is advised by R. G. Connelly, dairy specialist at V. P. I. He points out that "wet weather may prevent the making of high quality hay, but regardless of weather conditions, dry hay or cereal crop can be ensiled successfully."

Alfalfa, small grain crops, and rank growing pasture grass may be cut, allowed to wilt and ensiled without any preservatives, to provide excellent feed when pastures are short.

Connelly warns, however, that the green material must be wilted so it will not contain more than 60 to 68 per cent moisture when ensiled. If the green material is too juicy when ensiled, you can add corn and cob meal or good quality chopped hay to the silage at the rate of about 250 pounds per ton of alfalfa or bean silage. The dry corn and cob meal or chopped hay can be mixed with the silage as it passes into the blower.

Connelly also recommends the use of storm-fence silos for temporary storage of the silage. The silos are inexpensive and easy to build; and can be dismantled when not in use. Detailed directions for building storm-fence silos are available from county agents, or from the dairy department at VPI, Blacksburg.

Surplus Milk Can Be Used

Dairy incomes might be upped by using low-priced surplus milk to feed and stimulate growth of heifer calves for herd replacements.

At the age of about 7 months, the milk-fed calves will be ready to go on good pasture and grain.
